On Wray Bros you will find safety data sheets for the Jangro products presented. In order to fulfil your obligations, you will also find several COSHH risk assessment guides in PDF format and an editable Word template. Both can be useful in your health and safety obligations. These downloadable PDF forms are only helpful. It is the responsibility of the user to ensure that the information contained in the safety data sheet, the use and storage of the product, etc. NOTE: For customers, only Wray Bros. can provide customizable word documents for the COSHH risk assessments listed below. To receive a copy, please send an email: [email protected]. Step 1: Carefully consider which dangerous substances are used in the workplace and identify the risks associated with using these substances for human health. Step 2: Decide what precautions are needed before you start using dangerous substances. Step 3: Prevent people from being exposed to dangerous substances, but if this is not reasonably feasible, control the exposure. Step 4: Ensure that control measures are used and maintained properly and that safety measures are followed. Step 5: If necessary, monitor workers' exposure to dangerous substances. Step 6: Perform health surveillance if your assessment has shown that this is necessary or COSHH makes specific claims. Step 7: If necessary, draw up plans and procedures for accidents, incidents and emergencies. Step 8: Ensure that all employees are properly informed, trained and monitored appropriately.
